GENERAL

This report presents detailed statistics for the United States and regions by urban and rural residence on the composition of families, cross-classified by various social and economic characteristics. The data are based on the 1970 Census of Population. Legal provision for this census, which was conducted as of April 1, 1970, was made in the Act of Congress of August 31, 1954 (amended August 1957), which codified Title 13, United States Code.

A major portion of the information compiled from the 1970 Census of Population appears in Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, which focuses on the presentation of data for States, counties, places, and other areas of the United States. The present report is part of Volume II, Subject Reports, wherein most reports concentrate on the presentation of national and regional data for a particular subject. A list of Volume II subject reports from the 1970 census is presented on page II. For a description of Volumes I and II, as well as other elements of the data dissemination program of the 1970 Population and Housing Census, see Appendix E, "Publication and Computer Summary Tape Program."

The content and procedures of the 1970 census were determined after evaluation of the results of the 1960 census, consultation with a wide variety of users of census data, and extensive field pretesting. A number of changes were introduced in 1970 to improve the usefulness of the census results. For the characteristics shown in this report, the changes do not, however, affect to any appreciable extent the comparability of the 1970 data with those for 1960.

More detailed information on the technical and procedural matters covered in the text of this report can be obtained by writing to the Director, Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233. Such information will also appear in later reports of the 1970 census.

Organization of the text.—The text consists of this introduction and Appendixes A through E, which appear after the tables. The introduction contains information relating specifically to the principal subject of this report, such as definitions of terms and editing procedures. Appendix A provides general information concerning the presentation of data in this series of reports and the collection and processing procedures of the 1970 census. Appendix B describes the various area classifications (e.g., urban and rural residence, urbanized areas, etc.) and also explains the residence rules used in counting the population. Appendix C provides brief definitions and explanations of subjects covered in cross-classifications in this report and other reports in this series. Appendix D presents information on sources of error in the data, sampling variability, ratio estimation, and editing procedures. Appendix E summarizes the data dissemination program.

Content of the tables.—The tables present data on family composition and on social and economic characteristics related to the life cycle of the family as determined by tabulations of families by age and duration of marriage of the head.

Among the aspects of family composition presented are size of family, number or presence of own and related children by age, ages of oldest and youngest children in the family, presence of adult family members (other than head and wife) by age, presence of parents and grandchildren of the family head, presence and characteristics of subfamilies, number and type of nonrelatives of the head who are sharing the housing unit, and presence of adult females (who are not employed) in families with young children. Most of the tables present data for three types of families: husband-wife families, other families with male head, and families with female head.

Social characteristics by which families are classified in this report include age, sex, race, and Spanish origin of head, marital status and year of first marriage of head, country of origin of heads and wives of foreign or mixed parentage, marital history and age at first marriage of head and wife, and education of head, wife, and other family members.

The economic characteristics of families include labor force status and major occupation group of head and wife, hours worked by head, weeks worked and earnings of wife in 1969, and income of head and family in 1969.

Sample size.—The statistics in this report are based on a sample adjusted to represent the total population. All tables are based on the 5-percent sample, except tables 29, 30, and 32, which are based on the 15-percent sample (see "Data Collection Procedures" in Appendix A). An explanation of the ratio estimation procedure and information on the sampling variability associated with the data are contained in Appendix D.

RELATED MATERIALS

1970 census reports.—Complete-count statistics on household relationship and families by presence and number of own children are presented for the United States in chapter B of Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, Part 1, "United States Summary." In addition, chapter B for each State shows complete-count data on household relationship and families by presence and number of own children for the State, urban and rural parts, counties, standard metropolitan statistical areas, urbanized areas, and selected places. Statistics on household relationship, family composition, and subfamilies, based on the 20-percent sample, appear in chapter C of Volume I. Area detail presented in chapter C is similar to that presented in chapter B. Chapter D of Volume I presents sample statistics on household relationship; families by type and composition, characteristics of head and wife, income, and poverty status; and subfamilies by marital status and number of children for the United States, urban and rural parts, and standard metropolitan statistical areas of 250,000 or more. Chapters B, C, and D were originally published respectively as paperbound Series PC(1)-B reports, General Population Characteristics; Series PC(1)-C reports, General Social and Economic Characteristics; and Series PC(1)-D reports, Detailed Characteristics.

Statistics on relationship to head of household, type of family, and number of own children are also shown for census tracts of 241 standard metropolitan statistical areas and selected adjacent areas in the 1970 Census of Population and Housing, Series PHC(1), Census Tracts.

Reports from earlier censuses.—In the 1960 census reports, data on family composition from a 5-percent sample, cross-classified by most of the characteristics shown in this report, were published in 1960 Census of Population, Volume II, PC(2)-4A, Families. Other subject reports from the 1960 census in which family composition is one of the central subjects are PC(2)-4B, Persons by Family Characteristics; PC(2)-4D, Age at First Marriage; PC(2)-4E, Marital Status; and PC(2)-3A, Women by Number of Children Ever Born. Data on households and families were published for regions, divisions, States, standard metropolitan statistical areas, cities, and counties in 1960 Census of Population, Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, and for census tracts in 1960 Censuses of Population and Housing, Series PHC(1), Census Tracts. Most other reports in Series PC(2) and PC(3) include information on households and families.

In the 1950 census reports, data on number of households, families, and unrelated individuals, based on a complete count, are shown in 1950 Census of Population, Volume II, Characteristics of the Population. Sample data on family status, cross-classified by many of the characteristics shown in this report, are presented in 1950 Census of Population, Volume IV, Part 2A, General Characteristics of Families. Additional statistics on family subjects are presented in nearly all of the special reports in Volume IV of the 1950 Census of Population.

Current Population Survey.—Data on the population by household and family status for the United States are collected regularly and published annually by the Bureau of the Census through its Current Population Survey (CPS). The CPS is a nationwide survey, covering a sample of about 50,000 occupied housing units and the households residing in them. These data are published in Series P-20, Current Population Reports. (For a statement on the comparability of CPS and census data on family status, see the section on "Comparability With Other Data.")

Unpublished data.—For most of the Volume II reports, statistics in addition to those published in the report are available on a reimbursable basis from computer tape files. Data shown for the United States as a whole are available for regions, divisions, and States, and, in a number of instances, the data for some characteristics were tabulated in greater detail than shown in the reports. Requests for unpublished data, giving a specific description of the figures desired, should be made in writing to the Director, Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233. Inquiries concerning unpublished data should be transmitted to the Bureau as soon as possible since tape files are not maintained indefinitely.

DEFINITIONS AND EXPLANATIONS OF PRINCIPAL SUBJECTS

The definitions and explanations below relate only to the principal subjects of this report. Brief definitions of other items that appear in cross-classifications in the tables of this report are presented in Appendix C.

The data on household relationship, family status, and group quarters were derived from answers to question 2 (see facsimile of questionnaire item 2 below) and entries in item B which identified group quarters and occupied and vacant housing units.

The question on household relationship was asked of all persons. The item on type of unit was filled by the enumerator or in the census office for each household.

Household

A household includes all the persons who occupy a group of rooms or a single room which constitutes a housing unit. A group of rooms or single room is regarded as a housing unit when it is occupied as separate living quarters, that is, when the occupants do not live and eat with any other persons in the structure, and when there is either (1) direct access from the outside of the building or through a common hall or (2) complete kitchen facilities for the exclusive use of the occupants of the household. All persons not living in households are classified by the Bureau of the Census as living in group quarters.

Family

According to 1970 census definitions, a family consists of a household head and one or more other persons living in the same household who are related to the head by blood, marriage, or adoption; all persons in a household who are related to the head are regarded as members of his (her) family. Not all households contain families, because a household may be composed of a group of unrelated persons or one person living alone.

The classification of families by type is based on the sex and marital status of the head. Families with a head and wife present are termed "husband-wife families." Families with no spouse of head present are "other families with male head" or "families with female head," depending on the sex of the head.

A "family" has the same meaning in the 1970 census as a "primary family" in the 1960 census. Secondary families were defined in the 1960 census as groups of persons related to each other but unrelated to the household head, such as lodgers, friends, partners, or resident employees. However, the number of such families became so small (95,000 in 1969, according to the Current Population Survey) that the Bureau of the Census decided to include persons in these families in the count of secondary individuals for 1970.

Subfamily

A subfamily is a married couple with or without children, or one parent with one or more single children under 18 years old, living in a household and related to, but not including, the head of the household or his wife. The most common example of a subfamily is a young married couple sharing the home of the husband's or wife's parents. Members of a subfamily are also included among the members of a family. The number of subfamilies, therefore, is not included in the number of families.

Primary Individual

A primary individual is a household head living alone or with nonrelatives

If "Other relative of head," also give exact relationship, for example, mother-in-law, brother, niece, grandson, etc.

If "Other not related to head," also give exact relationship, for example, partner, maid, etc.

only. Examples of primary individuals who have nonrelatives living with them include a single woman who shares her apartment with a partner or housekeeper, and a widow who has a lodger occupying a room in her house.

Relationship to Head of Household, Family, or Subfamily

Several categories of relationship to head of household, family, or subfamily are recognized in this report.

Head of household, family, or subfamily.—One person in each household is designated as the "head," that is, the person who is regarded as the head by the members of the household. The same principle applies to families and subfamilies. However, if a married woman living with her husband was reported as the head, her husband was considered the head for the purpose of simplifying the tabulations.

Two types of household heads are distinguished—the head of a family and a primary individual. The number of household heads is equal to the number of family heads plus the number of primary individuals.

Wife of household head, family head, or subfamily head.—The number of women who are wives of heads in each category is, by definition, the same as the number of husband-wife households, husband-wife families, or husband-wife subfamilies. The classification includes women in common-law marriages as well as women in formal marriages.

Although by definition the number of wives of household, family, or subfamily heads should be equal to the number of heads who are married males, wife present, in practice the numbers may differ because, in the weighting of the sample, husbands and their wives were sometimes given different weights.

Child of head.—An own child under 18 years old is defined in the 1970 census, as in 1960, as a single (never married) son, daughter, stepchild, or adopted child of a family or subfamily head.

The number of own children under 18 in families or subfamilies includes those living with parents who have never married. Certain tables show the number of "related children" under 18 years old in the family. This includes not only "own" children, as defined above, but also all other family members, regardless of marital status, who are under 18 years old (except the head or wife).

"Own children under 25" and "own children of any age," as the terms are used in this report, include all children living with the head regardless of marital status. These terms are comparable to the terms used in the 1960 census reports and, also, to the terms "sons/daughters under 25" and "sons/daughters of any age" used in other reports from the 1970 census.

Parents and grandchildren of head.—Statistics in this report on parents and grandchildren include parents and grandchildren of the wife of the head of a household or family as well as parents and grandchildren of the head.

Other relative of head.—An "other relative" of the head is a person related to the family head by blood, marriage, or adoption, but not included specifically in another relationship category shown in the particular table.

Not related to head.—This classification comprises persons in the household who are not related to the household head by blood, marriage, or adoption; nonrelatives are classified as lodgers or resident employees.

A "lodger" is any household member not related to the household head except a resident employee. The classification includes roomers, boarders, partners, and relatives of such persons, and also foster children and wards.

A "resident employee" is an employee of the head of the household who usually resides in the housing unit with his employer; the term also includes the employee's relatives living in the same housing unit. Among the main types of resident employees are maids, hired farm hands, cooks, nurses, and companions.

Comparability With Other Data

The figures on relationship of family members to head of family shown in this report may be compared with the 1960 census and the 1950 census statistics on relationship of primary family members to head of primary family, and with the 1940 census statistics on relationship to head of household, for persons related to head by blood, marriage, or adoption.

The 1970 definition of a household differs from that used in the 1960 census only in the change in the definition of housing unit to require "complete kitchen facilities" in 1970, as compared with "cooking equipment" previously. The 1970 definition for group quarters is basically the same as that for 1960.

Other 1970 census reports.—This report presents data mainly from the 5-percent sample, whereas other reports present data based on the complete count and on the 15-percent or 20-percent samples. The number of households and the total population in the United States according to the 20-percent sample are almost identical with the numbers according to the complete count, because the numbers in the sample were controlled to agree with those in the complete count. This control extended to other categories of household and family status, including three types of households (male head with own children under 18, male head without own children under 18, and female head) and group quarters. In general, for detailed subdivisions of the data within these control groups, the 20-percent sample data are reasonably close to the complete-count data when sampling variability is taken into account.

The figures from the 5-percent sample shown in this report tend to be in close agreement with those from the 20-percent sample shown in other reports.

Subject report PC(2)-4B, Persons by Family Characteristics, gives many similar statistics on the family status of persons; however, the unit of analysis in that report is generally the individual person. In the present report, where information is shown for the total numbers of family members of certain ages, etc., the numbers of sample family members are weighted according to the weight of the family head since the unit of analysis here is the family.

Current Population Survey.—The key figures in the March 1970 Current Population Survey (CPS) with regard to the number of households, family heads and wives, and primary individuals are in agreement with those in the 1970 census 5-percent sample, when account is taken of the sampling error associated with the estimates. Furthermore, when allowance is made for the difference between the date of the CPS and that of the census, and for the exclusion from the CPS of Armed Forces in military barracks (1,005,000 male members of the Armed Forces in the 20-percent sample), the total population in the CPS, which was controlled to independent estimates, is quite close to that in the census. However, the number of persons in households is larger in the CPS than in the census because of a difference in coverage. The census instructions called for all college students (1,766,000 in the 20-percent sample) to be enumerated in the community where they attended college, whereas the CPS instructions called for all single college students living away from home in college dormitories to be enumerated in their parental homes.
