REPORT No. FT SA 23

During the war period, the Bureau of the Census compiled statistics on United States export shipments which were lost as a result of war and marine casualties. These reports were prepared from the statistical copies of the Shipper's Export Declarations for shipments on vessels which the War Shipping Administration reported as lost. The reports were released to a limited number of authorized government agencies during the war period on a confidential basis.

It is now possible to release these data on vessel sinkings to the general public. This report includes data on all vessels reported lost during the calendar year 1944. A similar report for data on all vessels reported lost during the 1943 calendar year is available upon request. Because of wartime controls, the names of vessels lost due to war and marine casualties in many instances were reported to the Bureau of the Census on a delayed basis. Thus this report includes data not only on shipments made in 1944 and reported lost in 1944 but also on shipments actually made in 1943 but not reported as lost until 1944. Approximately 41 percent of the value and 37 percent of the shipping weight shown in the 1944 data (domestic and foreign combined) refer to shipments included in the 1943 export statistics. In addition there are excluded from these 1944 data, export shipments actually made in 1944 and carried on vessels which were not reported as lost until 1945. With the cessation of hostilities in Europe and the announcement of V-E Day in May 1945, and with the small number of sinkings reported in the Pacific from October 1944 through April 1945, the sinking reports were discontinued as of May 1, 1945. It is therefore impossible to estimate the total value and shipping weight of shipments exported during 1944 but excluded from this 1944 sinking report since they were not reported as lost until 1945. However, during the first months of 1945 when sinking data were compiled, approximately 3 percent of the value and 19 percent of the shipping weight shown in the 1944 sinking report were for shipments exported during 1944 and excluded from the 1944 report since they were reported lost in 1945.

Since adjustments have not been made in the 1944 export sinking data to correct for the delay in reporting of lost vessels, care should be exercised in attempting to compare the 1944 total export data with losses due to war and marine casualties.

Excluded from these statistics are sinking data on shipments of merchandise intransit through the United States from one foreign country to another and on cargoes other than commercial or Lend-Lease carried on vessels owned or bare-boat chartered and operated by the United States Army or Navy. Shipments of military and naval supplies and equipment for the use of United States armed forces abroad are excluded both from the export statistics and from the statistics on cargo losses. Cargoes lost on vessels which were damaged but not sunk are not included in this report.
