A Census of Governments is taken at 5-year intervals as required by law under Title 13, United States Code, Section 161. This 1982 Census, similar to those taken since 1957, covers four major subject fields--governmental organization, taxable property values, public employment, and governmental finances.

Volume 3, Number 3, Labor-Management Relations in State and Local Governments, is the third of three reports from the public employment phase of the 1982 Census of Governments. This report provides summary data on labor-management relations in State and local governments, by State and type of government.

ORGANIZATION OF THIS REPORT

This introduction provides a summary of "findings" from a portion of the 1982 Census of Governments, Survey of Government Employment, which includes data by State and type of government on labor-management relations policies, organized employees, labor-management agreements, bargaining units, and employees represented by bargaining units. Definitions of terms used in this publication; a description of how data were obtained and their limitations; the availability of additional data concerning government employment, payrolls, labor-management relations, and the meaning of symbols used in the statistical tables of this report are also presented in the introduction.

FINDINGS

Approximately 4.9 million State and local government employees belong to organizations (unions, associations, federations, etc.) which attempt to deal with governments on matters related to employee conditions of work. This number represents 37.5 percent of all full- and part-time State and local government employees, 13.0 million, as of October 1982. A larger portion of full-time employees belong to employee organizations, 45.7 percent, than part-time employees, 7.9 percent. A summary of organized full- and part-time State and local government employees by level and type of government is shown in table A.

Table A. Organized Employees, by Level and Type of Government: October 1982

Level and type of government	Organized employees
	Number	Percent of employees
Total.....	4,868,313	37.5

Township.....	143,444	40.3
Special district.....	150,371	31.5
School district.....	1,840,373	43.9

Municipal governments have the highest proportion of organized employees, 45.5 percent of all employees, while school districts have the highest level of organized full-time employees, 53.8 percent. The lowest level of employee organization is in State governments where only 29.3 percent of all employees belong to employee organizations.

There are seven major functions of State and local governments that account for over three-fourths of the total organized employees: education, fire protection, highways, hospitals, police protection, public welfare, and sanitation other than sewerage. Among these functions, fire protection had the highest percentage of organized employees (51.6 percent of total employees and 66.5 percent of full-time employees) and education accounted for the greatest number of organized employees (2,453,000 full-time employees and 174,000 part-time employees). Table B summarizes the percentage of organized full-time State and local government employees by function and by level of government.

Labor relations policies for collective negotiations and/or meet and discussions with employee organizations exist in 13,384 State and local governments. Of the 82,923 local governments in existence as of October 1982, 13,342 had a labor relations policy and all but 8 of the 50 State governments had a labor relations policy covering some or all of their employees. As shown in the table C summary of governments with a labor relations policy, school district governments had the highest number and proportion reporting the existence of a labor relations policy, 7,837 districts and 52.0 percent of all districts, respectively.

State and local governments had 29,759 labor-management contractual agreements in effect as of October 1982. Nearly 1,000 of these agreements were "new" agreements that went into effect since October 1981 and 12,366 were renegotiated agreements that went into effect between October 1981 and October 1982. Nearly 4,517,000 State and local government workers were covered by the 29,759 labor-management contractual agreements, or 34.8 percent of all State and local government employees. In addition to the contractual agreements negotiated by State and local governments with employee organizations, there were 7,124 memoranda of understanding which set forth conditions that were informally agreed upon by State or local governments and employee groups. Table D summarizes the numbers of contractual agreements and memoranda of understanding by level and type of government.

There were 33,846 bargaining units in State and local governments that represented 5,137,000 employees as of October 1982. School district governments had more bargaining units (15,918) and more employees represented by bargaining units (1,933,291) than did each of the other types of local governments or State governments. Approximately 60 percent of all bargaining units represented fewer than 50 employees and only 1,554 bargaining units, 4.6 percent, represented 500 or more employees.

DEFINITIONS OF TERMS

A discussion of the terms and classifications used in this report is presented below. These terms are grouped in the following categories: Governmental Units and Types of Governments, Subject Matter Concepts, and Governmental Functions.

Governmental Units and Types of Governments

Governmental Units--A government is an organized entity whose governmental character is evidenced by popular election of the officials or their appointment by public officials, a high degree of public accountability, and the power to raise revenue to provide authorized services. In addition, a governmental unit must have sufficient discretion in the management of its own affairs to distinguish it from the administrative structure of any other governmental unit.[1]

State Governments--This category refers to the governments of the 50 States which constitute the United States.

Local Governments--The Bureau of the Census classifies local governments by five major types--county, municipal, township, school district, and special district. A description of each of the five types of local governments is given below.

County--Organized county governments are found throughout the Nation except in Connecticut, the District of Columbia, Rhode Island, and limited portions of a few other States. There were 3,041 county governments as of October 1982. These governments are legally designated as "boroughs" in Alaska and "parishes" in Louisiana. Excluded from county government statistics and included with municipalities or townships are certain local governments that combine area and governmental characteristics of both counties and municipalities or townships.

Municipal--A municipality is a political subdivision within which a municipal corporation has been established to provide general local government services for a specific population concentration in a defined area. A municipality may be legally termed a city, village, borough (except in Alaska), or town (except in the New England States, Minnesota, New York, and Wisconsin). Included in this category are certain cities that are completely or substantially consolidated with their county governments, operate outside the geographic limits of any county, or for other reasons have no organized county government operations within their boundaries. Comprising this group are the following: Anaconda, Anchorage, Baltimore, Baton Rouge, Boston, Butte, Carson City, Columbus (Ga.), Denver, Honolulu, Indianapolis, Jacksonville, Juneau, Lexington (Ky.), Nashville, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Sitka, San Francisco, and Washington, D.C., as well as the "independent cities" in Virginia. Nantucket, Mass., is included with townships.

Township--Township governments, as distinguished from municipalities, are created to serve inhabitants of areas defined without regard to population concentration. This classification is applied to local governments in 20 States, including governmental units officially designated as "towns" in the six New England States, New York, and Wisconsin, and some "plantations" in Maine and "locations" in New Hampshire.

School District--There is a marked organizational diversity in the types of governmental units that provide for the operation of public schools. School districts, which are governmental entities that are fiscally and administratively independent of any other government, are found in all but five States (Alaska, Hawaii, Maryland, North Carolina, and Virginia) and the District of Columbia. Dependent school systems are administrative agencies of other governments (States, counties, municipalities, and townships) and are not counted as separate governmental entities by the Bureau of the Census. Dependent school systems are found exclusively in the District of Columbia and the five States noted above and also exist in 11 other States.

Special District--Special districts are local governmental units created to provide specific services that are not being supplied by other governments. These governmental units are known by a variety of titles including districts, authorities, boards, and commissions. A majority of special districts are established to perform a single function, but some have been given authority to provide several, usually related, kinds of services.

Subject Matter Concepts

Bargaining Unit--A group of employees recognized as appropriate for representation by an employee organization for the purpose of collective bargaining and/or meet and confer discussions. Units commonly include both members and nonmembers of the employee organization. Bargaining units are classified in this report by categories that describe the majority of employees in the unit.

Collective Negotiations--The method of determining conditions of employment through negotiations between representatives of the employer and employee organizations, usually resulting in a contract or agreement that is mutually binding.

Contractual Agreement--A written document developed by collective negotiations between representatives of the employer and employee organizations that describes the conditions of employment (e.g., wages, hours, fringe benefits, etc.) and the methods by which disputes or grievances arising during the term of the contract shall be resolved. A contractual agreement is mutually binding on both parties and is for a definite period of time--usually 1 to 3 years.

Employees--Employees, as used in this report, refers to all persons gainfully employed by and performing services for a government. This includes all persons paid for personal services performed, including persons paid from federally funded programs, paid elected officials, persons in a paid leave status, and persons paid on a "per meeting," annual, semiannual, or quarterly basis. Unpaid officials, pensioners, persons whose work is performed on a fee basis, and contractors and their employees are excluded from the count of employees. Full-time employees are defined to include those persons whose hours of work represent full-time employment in their employer government; part-time employees are those persons who work less than the standard number of hours for full-time work in their employer government.

Meet and Confer Discussions--The method of determining conditions of employment through periodic discussions between representatives of the employer and the employee organizations to seek agreement on matters within the scope of representation, frequently resulting in a nonbinding memorandum of understanding.

Memorandum of Understanding--A written document usually developed from meet and confer discussions, and sometimes from the unilateral action of the employer, that describes the conditions of employment (e.g., wages, hours, fringe benefits, etc.) and the methods by which disputes or grievances between employer and employees shall be resolved. It is nonbinding but is sometimes tantamount to a labor contract in States that prohibit public sector collective negotiations.

Organized Employees--State and local government employees who belong to an organization (e.g., union, association, federation, or council) that exists for the purpose, in whole or in part, of dealing with the employer concerning personnel policies and practices, employee grievances, labor disputes, wages, rates of pay, hours of employment, and other conditions of work.

Governmental Functions

Employees are classified according to the major function or activity of the agency, office, or other organizational entity in which they are employed. Following is a brief description of each functional category used in this report:

Air transportation--State and local government operation and support of airport facilities.

All Other and Unallocable--This classification represents all activities not individually specified.

Elementary, Secondary, and Higher Education--All activities associated with the operation of public elementary and secondary schools and institutions of higher education. Also included are all ancillary services associated with the operation of schools, such as pupil transportation, food service, bookstores, and the like. Instructional employees includes not only classroom teachers, but also principals, supervisors of instruction, librarians, teacher aides, library aides, guidance and psychological personnel, and persons engaged in academic research. Other employees includes all persons not included as instructional employees (e.g., school superintendents and other administrative personnel, clerical and secretarial staffs, plant operation and maintenance personnel, health and recreation employees, transportation and food service personnel, and any student employees). Noninstructional employees at hospitals operated by higher education institutions and serving the general public are excluded here and included in the "Hospitals" function.

Fire Protection--This classification is applied to local government fire protection and prevention activities plus any ambulance, rescue, or other auxiliary services provided by the fire protection agency. Volunteer firefighters, if remunerated for their services on a "per fire" or some other basis are included as part-time employees.

Highways--Activities associated with the maintenance and operation of streets, roads, sidewalks, bridges, tunnels, toll roads, and ferries are included at this function. Snow and ice removal, street lighting, and highway and traffic engineering activities are also included here.

Hospitals--This category includes only government-operated medical care facilities which provide in-patient care. Employees and payrolls of private corporations which lease and operate government-owned hospital facilities are excluded. In hospitals associated with government-operated medical schools, the instructional staff are included under "Higher Education" and all other hospital employees are included in this category.

Police Protection--All activities concerned with the enforcement of law and order, including coroner's offices, police training academies, investigation bureaus, and local jails, "lockups," or other detention facilities not intended to serve as correctional facilities.

Public Welfare--Included in this category are such activities as the administration of various public assistance programs for the needy, operation of homes for the elderly, indigent care institutions, and programs which provide payments for medical care and other services for the needy. Hospital services provided directly by a government, however, are included in the "Hospital" function rather than here.

Sanitation Other than Sewerage--Refuse collection and disposal, operation of sanitary landfills, and street cleaning activities.

SOURCES OF DATA

The data in this report are based on information obtained in the 1982 Census of Governments. Information on the number of full-time and part-time employees and related labor-management relations items were collected for the pay period that included the date of October 12, 1982. Data are collected for October because public employment is relatively stable in that month and free from seasonal employment fluctuations.

Data for 24 of the 50 State governments were obtained primarily from a central respondent for each State. Additional data for individual agencies and institutions of higher education were obtained, as necessary, by a mail canvass of the individual units. All individual agencies and institutions in the remaining 26 States were surveyed by mail.

Local government data were obtained primarily by mail canvass. Survey questionnaires were tailored to the various types of local governments and agencies surveyed; these questionnaires contained descriptions and instructions for each of the data categories for which information was requested. Governments that did not respond to the original mail request received followup mail requests and in some cases were personally visited and enumerated by trained Census Bureau personnel. As a rule, questionnaires were not sent to municipal and township governments with less than 2,500 population (unless they had a dependent school system) or to special district governments with less than five full-time employees, since these small governments were requested to report their employment and payrolls in an earlier identification and classification phase of the census.

Information supplied on mail canvass returns were electronically recorded and edited for consistency and reasonableness. Incomplete returns and replies containing information that failed consistency or reasonableness tests were referrred to trained Census Bureau personnel for review and possible followup. Additional or corrected information obtained in the review of these "failed edit" cases were then entered into the electronic data file for corrective processing.

Data for some local governments could not be obtained for October 1982. For the largest of these units (any counties, municipalities, and northeastern townships with populations greater than 10,000, school districts enrolling 5,000 or more pupils, and special districts with 100 or more employees), 1981 data were used, if available, or data were imputed on the basis of their most recent response in the Bureau's annual survey of government employment. For the remaining nonrespondent counties, municipalities, townships, and school systems, imputed employment data were developed on the basis of similar respondent governments in the same State. Employment imputation procedures were not applied to special districts; if available, data from secondary sources were used. No imputations were applied to labor-management relations items.

LIMITATIONS OF DATA

The mail canvass questionnaires used in this phase of the 1982 Census of Governments contained detailed definitions and reporting instructions to assist State and local government officials in their preparation of replies and to facilitate uniform interpretation and reporting procedures. Each questionnaire also contained a Census Bureau telephone number that State or local officials could call to obtain additional clarification and assistance from subject matter specialists. Quality control of reported data was aided also by reference to information collected by the Bureau in its annual sample surveys of government employment. These annual surveys request similar data; include the same general definitions and reporting procedures, and include all State governments, the largest local governments, and a sample of smaller local governments. However, human and mechanical errors occur in any mass statistical operation such as the census of governments, including omissions, misinterpretations, errors in reporting, errors in electronic recording of data, errors in the clerical review and adjustment of electronically identified problem data, and at other stages of data processing. Procedures were applied at each stage of processing this phase of the 1982 Census of Governments to keep human and mechanical errors at an acceptable low level.

Although an effort has been made in each census to maintain congruity of the definitions, concepts, and terms applied in data collection, historical and interarea comparisons should be made with care. Changes in the level or type of government providing particular services occur over time. Hence, a decrease in employment for a particular function of a government does not, in and of itself, signify a diminution of services the population receives. Moreover, certain services may be "contracted out" and the contractor's employees are not counted as employees of the contracting government. Also, annexations, other boundary changes, consolidations of governmental entities, and changes in the demographic makeup of the area served may affect not only the number of persons for whom services must be provided, but also the nature and scope of the necessary services.

AVAILABILITY OF DATA

Copies of this and other reports of the 1982 Census of Governments are available from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402 and from U.S. Department of Commerce District Offices.

Published data on employment and payrolls for individual major local governments (all counties, municipalities, and townships in selected States having 10,000 or more population, local school systems enrolling 5,000 or more pupils, and special districts employing 100 or more full-time workers) are presented in Volume 3, Number 1, Employment of Major Local Governments. Federal, State, and local government employment and payroll summaries by State and by governmental function, as well as local government aggregates for all county areas in the United States, are presented in Volume 3, Number 2, Compendium of Public Employment. Volume 3, Number 2S, Compendium of Public Employment (Supplement), provides information on State and local government employer costs for employee benefits and number of State and local government employees covered by Federal Social Security by State and type of government.

In addition to the volume 3 published reports of the 1982 Census of Governments, detailed and summary magnetic tapes of the 1982 Census of Governments, Survey of Government Employment, are also available. ACKNOWLEDGMENT

The generous cooperation of State and local government officials is gratefully acknowledged. The time and effort provided by these officials in supplying original data for this phase of the 1982 Census of Governments, and in assisting Bureau personnel who telephoned for verification or adjustment of data questioned during processing of replies, made it possible to produce this report.

PUBLICATION PROGRAM

The 1982 Census of Governments, similar to those taken every 5 years since 1957, covers four major subject fields relating to State and local governments— governmental organization, taxable property values, public employment, and governmental finances.

The results are being issued in one preliminary report and eight volumes, which are described below. Publications order forms for specific reports may be obtained by writing to the Data User Services Division, Customer Services Branch (Publications), Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233.

PRELIMINARY REPORT

This report presents preliminary data from the Directory Survey of Local Governments on the number of governments by type.

Number 1. Governmental Units in 1982

VOLUME 1. GOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATION—1 report (GC82(1))

Data are presented at the national level, by States, and for SMSA's on county, municipal, and township governments by size classes; on public school systems by size of enrollment, by grades provided, and by number of schools operated; and on special district governments by function performed. The report also includes a summary description of governmental structure in each State.

VOLUME 2. TAXABLE PROPERTY VALUES AND ASSESSMENT/SALES PRICE RATIOS—1 report (GC82(2))

This volume presents data on amounts of assessed value (gross and net) officially determined in 1981 for local general property taxation, for counties, and for each city having a 1980 population of 50,000 or more, with totals for States. The data include estimates of locally assessed realty distributed among major use categories.

The report also provides statistics, based on a sampling within 2,000 local assessing jurisdictions throughout the United States, on real properties involved in measurable sales during a 6-month period of 1981. Statistics include assessment-sales ratios and dispersion coefficients applicable to single-family (nonfarm) houses and certain other realty.

VOLUME 3. PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT—3 reports (GC82(3) 1 to 3)

Number 1. Employment of Major Local Governments—This report presents statistics on October 1982 employment and payrolls of individual major local governments. Data are presented individually for all county governments, municipalities (and townships in selected States) with 10,000 or more population, school systems with 5,000 or more enrollment, and special districts having 100 or more full-time employees.

Number 2. Compendium of Public Employment—This report is a comprehensive summary of public sector employment, payrolls, and employer costs for selected employee benefits as of October 1982. Employment and payroll data are shown by governmental function. Data are summarized nationally and by States. Local government statistics are also summarized for each county area; by population-size group for counties, municipalities, and townships; by enrollment-size group for school districts; and by employment-size group for special district governments.

Number 3. Labor-Management Relations in State and Local Governments—This report is a national and State-by-State summary of labor-management relations in State and local governments as of October 1982. Statistics include the number and percent of employees who belong to an employee organization; number of governments with a labor relations policy; number of contractual agreements and number of employees units; and work stoppages which occurred between October 16, 1981, and October 15, 1982.

VOLUME 4. GOVERNMENTAL FINANCES—5 reports (GC82(4) 1 to 5)

This volume presents statistics on revenue, expenditure, debt, and financial assets of State and local governments.

Number 1. Finances of School Districts—Selected financial items are shown for enrollment-size groups of public school systems and individual school systems enrolling 5,000 or more pupils.

Number 2. Finances of Special Districts—Data are shown for selected large districts.

Number 3. Finances of County Governments—Selected financial items are shown for groups of counties, classified by population-size groups, and for individual county governments.

Number 4. Finances of Municipal and Township Governments—Selected financial items are reported for population-size groups of these governments and for individual municipalities and townships having 10,000 or more inhabitants.

Number 5. Compendium of Government Finances—This report is a comprehensive summary showing data for the Federal Government, individual States, and local governments by type of government, and data for State and local governments by States, including a breakdown by type of government.
