EMployment discrimination is against the law!

U.S. Department of Commerce and U.S. Census Bureau policies prohibit discrimination against any employee or applicant for employment based on race, sex (including pregnancy, gender identity, sexual harassment and sexual orientation), national origin, color, religion, age (40 years and older), genetic information (medical history) or disability. The law also protects you from retaliation if you oppose employment discrimination, file a complaint of discrimination, or participate in the equal employment opportunity (EEO) complaint process (even if the complaint is not yours). These policies are and will continue to be strictly enforced.

Employees or applicants for employment with the U.S. Census Bureau who believe they have been discriminated or retaliated against may contact an EEO counselor. The counselor will attempt to resolve the matter and furnish information about filing a formal complaint of discrimination.

To preserve your rights under the law, you must contact the EEO Office within 45 CALENDAR DAYS of the following:

- Becoming aware of the alleged discriminatory action.
- The alleged discriminatory action.
- The effective date of the personnel action.
