INTRODUCTION

PURPOSE AND USES OF THE ECONOMIC CENSUSES

The economic censuses are the major source of facts about the structure and functioning of the Nation's economy. They provide essential information for government, business, industry, and the general public.

Economic censuses furnish an important part of the framework for such composite measures as the gross national product, input-output measures, production and price indexes, and other statistical series that measure short-term changes in economic conditions.

Policy-making agencies of the Federal Government use the data, especially in monitoring economic activity and providing assistance to business.

State and local governments use the data to assess business activities and tax bases within their jurisdictions and to develop programs to attract business.

Trade associations study trends in their own and competing industries and keep their members informed of market changes.

Individual businesses use the data to locate potential markets and to analyze their own production and sales performance relative to industry or area averages.

AUTHORITY AND SCOPE

Title 13 of the United States Code (sections 131, 191, and 224) directs the Census Bureau to take the economic censuses every 5 years, covering years ending in 2 and 7. The 1987 Economic Censuses consist of the—

- Census of Retail Trade
- Census of Wholesale Trade
- Census of Service Industries
- Census of Transportation
- Census of Manufactures
- Census of Mineral Industries
- Census of Construction Industries

Special programs also cover enterprise statistics and minority-owned and women-owned businesses. (The 1987 Census of Agriculture and 1987 Census of Governments are conducted separately.) The next economic censuses are scheduled to be taken in 1993 covering the year 1992.

ENTERPRISE STATISTICS

AVAILABILITY OF THE DATA

The results of each of the economic censuses are available in printed reports, for sale by the U.S. Government Printing Office, and on microfiche, computer tape, compact discs with read-only memory, and flexible diskettes, for sale by the Census Bureau. Order forms for all types of products are available on request from Customer Services, Census Bureau, Washington, DC 20233. A more complete description of publications being issued from this census is on the inside back cover of this document.

Census facts are also widely disseminated by trade associations, business journals, and newspapers. Volumes containing census statistics are available in most major public and college libraries. Finally, State Data Centers in every State and Business and Industry Data Centers in many States also supply economic census statistics.

WHAT'S NEW IN 1987

The General Report on Industrial Organization, last published in 1982, has been split into two separate publications, the Large Companies report and the Company Summary report.

The primary function of the Large Companies report is to present data reported by companies with 500 employees or more. The resulting tables show selected financial statistics of large companies. The Company Summary report contains many tables formerly published in the General Report on Industrial Organization. Both publications have expanded the selection of tables found in the 1982 report.

Data will be published on the basis of the newly updated Enterprise Industrial Classification (EIC) code system. The EIC code system was updated to conform with revisions made to the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) system.

The scope of enterprise statistics has been expanded to include selected transportation industries (EIC's 42, 44, and 47), as well as hospitals (EIC 806). Agricultural production (EIC 01 and 02) is not included in 1987.

HISTORICAL INFORMATION

The economic censuses have been taken together as an integrated program at 5-year intervals since 1967, and before that for 1963, 1958, and 1954. Prior to that time, the individual censuses were taken separately at varying intervals.

INTRODUCTION 1

The economic censuses trace their beginnings to the 1810 Decennial Census, when questions on manufacturing were included with those for population. Coverage of economic activities was expanded for 1840 and subsequent censuses to include mining and some commercial activities. In 1902, Congress established a permanent Census Bureau and directed that a census of manufactures be taken every 5 years. The 1905 Manufactures Census was the first time a census was taken apart from the regular every-10-year population census.

The first census of business was taken in 1930, covering 1929. Initially it covered retail and wholesale trade, and construction industries, but it was broadened in 1933 to include some of the service trades.

The 1954 economic censuses were the first to be fully integrated—providing comparable census data across economic sectors, using consistent time periods, concepts, definitions, classifications, and reporting units. These were the first censuses to be taken by mail, using lists of firms provided by the administrative records of other federal agencies. Since 1963, administrative records have also been used to provide basic statistics as well for very small firms, reducing or eliminating the need to send them census questionnaires. The Enterprise Statistics Program, which publishes combined data from the economic censuses, was made possible with the implementation of the integrated census program in 1954.

The range of industries covered in the economic censuses has continued to expand. The Census of Construction Industries began on a regular basis in 1967, and the scope of service industries was broadened in 1967, 1977, and 1987. The Census of Transportation began in 1963 as a set of surveys covering travel, transportation of commodities, and trucks. New for 1987 are publications reporting on business establishments engaged in several transportation industries, paralleling the data on establishments in other sectors. This is part of a gradual expansion in coverage of industries previously subjected to government regulation. The Survey of Minority-Owned Business Enterprises was first conducted as a special project in 1969 and was incorporated into the economic censuses in 1972 along with the Survey of Women-Owned Businesses.

Economic censuses have also been taken in Puerto Rico since 1909, in the Virgin Islands and Guam since 1958, and in the Northern Mariana Islands since 1982.

Statistical reports from the 1982 and earlier censuses provide historical figures for the study of long-term time series and are available in some large libraries. All of the census data published since 1967 are still available for sale on microfiche from the Census Bureau.

AVAILABILITY OF MORE FREQUENT ECONOMIC DATA

While the censuses provide complete enumerations every 5 years, there are many needs for more frequent data as well. The Census Bureau conducts a number of monthly, quarterly, and annual surveys, the results of which appear in publication series such as Current Business Reports (retail and wholesale trade and service industries), the Annual Survey of Manufactures, Current Industrial Reports, and the Quarterly Financial Report. Most of these surveys, while providing more frequent observations, yield less kind-of-business and geographic detail than the censuses. The County Business Patterns program offers annual statistics on the number of establishments, employment, and payroll classified by industry within each county.

SOURCES FOR MORE INFORMATION

More information about the scope, coverage, classification system, data items, and publications for each of the economic censuses and related surveys is published in the Guide to the 1987 Economic Censuses and Related Statistics. More information on the methodology, procedures, and history of the censuses will be published in the History of the 1987 Economic Censuses. Contact Customer Services for information on availability.

ENTERPRISE STATISTICS

The 1987 Enterprise Statistics is a series of publications based on data collected in the 1987 Censuses of Wholesale Trade, Retail Trade, Service Industries, Manufactures, Mineral Industries, Construction Industries, and selected Transportation industries. These reports include: the Large Companies report, the Auxiliary Establishments report, and the Company Summary report (formerly the General Report on Industrial Organization).

The Large Companies publication is based on responses from a separate 1987 Economic Census report form sent to companies with 500 employees or more. The resulting tables show selected financial statistics of large companies.

The Company Summary publication is based on responses from the many different 1987 Economic Censuses report forms. Each of the economic census questionnaires include several general questions such as kind of business, dollar volume of business, number of employees, amount of payroll, and company affiliation. The resulting tables furnish comprehensive data on the industrial organization, size structure, and legal form of organization of all census reporting firms and the establishments they own or control.

The Auxiliary Establishments publication presents data on separately reported auxiliary units of multiestablishment firms. The primary functions of these establishments are to manage, administer, service, or support the activities of the other establishments of the company. The tables furnish detailed financial statistics of auxiliaries by industry classification of the operating establishments they service, the type of management or supporting service function they provide, their employment size, and their geographic location.

CENSUS DISCLOSURE RULES

In accordance with Federal law governing census reports, no data are published that would disclose the operations of an individual establishment or business. However, the number of establishments in a kind-of-business classification is not considered a disclosure, so this information may be released even though other information is withheld.

HOW THE DATA ARE PRESENTED

This publication is unique among census reports in that it provides data for entire companies. Virtually all economic census publications present information only for establishments. An establishment is defined as a business or industrial unit as a single physical location which produces or distributes goods or performs services. A company is a business organization consisting of all establishments under common ownership or control.

RELIABILITY OF DATA

All data compiled in this report originated from either census questionnaires or administrative records of other Federal agencies and, therefore, are not subject to sampling errors. However, the data are subject to nonsampling errors. Nonsampling errors can be attributed to many sources: inability to identify all cases in the actual universe; definition and classification difficulties; differences in the interpretation of questions; errors in recording or coding the data obtained; and other errors of collection, response, coverage, and estimation for missing or misreported data.

The accuracy of these tabulated data is determined by the joint effects of the various nonsampling errors. No direct measurement of these effects has been obtained except for estimation for missing or misreported data; however, precautionary steps were taken in all phases of the collection, processing, and tabulation of the data in an effort to minimize the effects of nonsampling errors.

The Bureau of the Census obtains on computer tape limited information extracted from administrative records of other Federal agencies. This information is used in conjunction with other information available to the Census Bureau to develop estimates for firms for which responses were not received in time for publication. Also, see appendix A for a more detailed explanation of census coverage and methodology.

SPECIAL TABULATIONS

Special tabulations of 1987 Enterprise Statistics data may be obtained, depending on availability of time and personnel, on computer tape, or in tabular form. The data will be in summary form and subject to the same rules prohibiting disclosure of confidential information (including name, address, kind of business, or other data for individual business establishments or companies) as are the regular publications.

Special tabulations are prepared on a cost basis. A request for a cost estimate, as well as exact specifications on the type and format of the data to be provided, should be directed to the Chief, Economic Surveys Division, Bureau of the Census, Washington, DC 20233.

To discuss a special tabulation before submitting specifications, call 301-763-1758.

SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

This report displays data collected on the 1987 Enterprise Summary report for companies with 500 employees or more within selected industries.¹ In 1987, 7,875 companies had 500 employees or more. The Business Services Industry (EIC 73) and the Eating and Drinking Industry (EIC 58) had the largest number of companies with 500 employees or more, numbering 865 and 511 respectively. Though there were only 480 companies that employed 10,000 employees or more, these companies accounted for 58 percent of the total sales and receipts and 61 percent of the annual payroll for all companies covered.

The total employment for all companies included in this universe was 28,265,276. Just under 50 percent, or 13,812,018 of the total employment, came from the manufacturing sector. The retail sector made up the next largest segment, employing a total of 7,465,060, and they were followed by the service sector which employed 4,846,180.

After adjusting for differences in the scopes of the 1972, 1977, 1982, and 1987 censuses² several trends are apparent. The service sector has grown the fastest, with the number of companies expanding 285 percent and sales and receipts growing by 962 percent between 1972 and 1987. The manufacturing sector, by sharp contrast, declined by 3 percent during the same period in total number of companies and only posted a 183 percent increase in sales and receipts.

Top growth industries that increased in number of companies, in terms of percentage, from 1972 to 1987 are as follows: Business Services (EIC 73), 321 percent; Eating and Drinking Places (EIC 58), 227 percent; and Automotive Dealers and Service Stations, (EIC 55), 163 percent.

The total sales and receipts for companies with 500 employees or more amounted to $3.2 trillion. Receipts per employee averaged $115,074 in 1987. The Wholesale Trade-Nondurable Goods Industry (EIC 51) topped out with the largest receipts per employee, averaging $443.2 thousand. The Personal Services Industry (EIC 72) had the lowest receipts per employee, averaging less than $33 thousand in receipts.

¹Data are collected for companies primarily engaged in Minerals, Construction, Manufacturing, Wholesale Trade, Retail Trade, most Service Industries, and Selected Transportation Industries.

²Historical data in table 5 were adjusted to a 1982 Enterprise Industry classification basis. This was done to allow for comparability in year-to-year figures.

Technical Notes

SOURCES OF DATA

Multiestablishment Companies

Since 1971, the Bureau of the Census has conducted an annual company organization survey of multiestablishment companies. Prior to the 1987 Economic Censuses, every multiestablishment company with more than 50 employees was required to complete census form NC-9901, Report of Organization, to determine its organizational and industrial structure as of the end of 1986. Specifically, each company was asked to update and correct a list of individual establishments owned or controlled by either the parent company or its subsidiaries. From the response, the Bureau of the Census was able to select and preaddress the appropriate 1987 census reports for each company.

During the actual censuses, information on company-establishment relationships and parent-subsidiary affiliations was confirmed or revised by including inquiries requesting information from firms either owning or controlling other companies or owned or controlled by another company in order to identify all subsidiary or parent firms.

Single-Establishment Companies

The Bureau of the Census created a mailing list of all employer firms engaged in industrial activities operating within the scope of the economic censuses by using a name and address computer file of all active businesses listed in the records of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) as having one or more paid employees, and a comparable name and address file of employers from the records of the Social Security Administration (SSA) containing the industry codes assigned to each business. The mailing list of single-establishment firms was developed by deleting from the initial list the records of all multiestablishment companies identified in the annual survey of multiestablishment companies.

Company Data

Company data refer to consolidated company-wide statistics which represent net unduplicated totals reported by companies only at the enterprise level, as explained below.

Each multiestablishment company that had 500 employees or more was mailed form ES-9100, Enterprise Summary Report, to obtain unduplicated, consolidated company totals of selected statistics. As in the 1982 Enterprise Statistics program, there was complete coverage for those multiestablishment economic companies with 500 employees or more.

The company totals collected on form ES-9100 represent consolidated domestic totals for the parent company and all of its subsidiaries as of the end of 1987. The data reported on merged or acquired companies varied because of differing accounting practices. When an acquisition or merger was treated by the company as a "pooling of interest," the data reflect the combined full-year activities of both acquiring and acquired companies regardless of the date of acquisition. In these cases, the company data correspond with the establishment data, since the establishment reports represent full-year activities, all of which were tabulated as part of the new parent company. However, when an acquisition or merger was treated by the acquiring company as a purchase, the company data normally reflect the operations of the acquired company only after the acquisition took place. Since the acquired company's establishment reports, representing a full year's activities, were credited to the acquiring company in the tabulations, the summary data supplied by the acquiring company on form ES-9100 had to be restated to provide comparable company and establishment totals. The restatement was based on information obtained either from the new parent company or from the ES-9100 filed by the acquired company. The company data in this report are primarily of the "pooling of interest" sort; the exact extent of the "purchase" accounting method is not known.

To avoid duplication of reporting, single-establishment companies with 500 or more employees were not mailed form ES-9100. Instead, data collected during the census on industry specific forms were supplemented using various estimation techniques for additional data items.

ASSIGNING INDUSTRY CODES

Each company covered in the 1987 Economic Censuses was classified in one of 146 enterprise industry categories (see appendix C). The two-digit SIC codes of companies shown in this publication are an aggregation of the detailed enterprise industry category codes.

For the multiestablishment companies, the enterprise industry classification was determined by first ascertaining the largest census industry division (manufacturing, wholesale trade, etc.) of each company; then, the primary enterprise industry category was selected from within that division. The determination of the largest census industry division and the primary enterprise industry category was made from establishment annual payroll data. For single-establishment companies, the industry category classification was simply the enterprise category that was the equivalent of the single census industry (four-digit SIC code) in which the company's single establishment was engaged.

Establishment payroll data were chosen to be the determining factor for enterprise industry classification of multiestablishment companies because they were found to be the most meaningful economic measure common to all economic censuses divisions. There are only three data items common to all economic censuses establishment reports. They are: employment, annual payroll, and dollar volume of business.

The employment data item covers different time periods for different industries and is affected by seasonality. Sales and receipts may not accurately reflect the relative economic impact of companies in different industries. For example, sales and receipts of a wholesale broker represent gross sales made rather than commissions received and might be greater than that of a hotel—yet a hotel's sales and receipts would have more of an impact. Annual payroll, then, has been determined to be the best economic measure, i.e., the item represents a full calendar year and is a good indicator of relative economic impact.

Integrated petroleum extraction and refining companies—Because of the widespread practice of the larger petroleum extraction and refining companies in vertically integrating their activities, Industry Category 29.1, Petroleum Refining (including integrated), was defined to include census (SIC) industries which cut across industry division lines. A company was classified in category 29.1 if it: (1) operated establishments both in SIC Industry 1311, Crude Petroleum and Natural Gas, and in Industry 2911, Petroleum Refining, and; (2) was primarily engaged in both industries, as reflected by its payroll. A company engaged in both industries 1311 and 2911, but primarily engaged in another industry category, was classified in that other category.

Nonintegrated petroleum companies primarily engaged in extracting or refining activities (industry 1311 or industry 2911, but not both) were classified in either the mineral industry category 13.1 or the manufacturing industry category 29.1, using the standard classification procedure for coding multi-industry companies.

OUT-OF-SCOPE ACTIVITIES

To present meaningful company data encompassing all economic and activities, data on out-of-scope activities have been included in this publication if a majority of the owning company's payroll was classified as primarily within the scope of the 1987 censuses. On the other hand, if the firm was primarily engaged in activities outside the scope of the 1987 censuses, based on payroll, the data for its predominantly out-of-scope activities were excluded, while the data for its in-census-scope establishments were included. For example, in handling companies primarily engaged in public utilities activities, data on their primary activities were excluded, while data on their retail appliance stores were included.

COMPARABILITY OF DATA

The 1987 and 1982 censuses were conducted under similar conditions and procedures. However, strict comparability of the data for the two censuses is limited by the following factors:

Scope—In 1982, agricultural production of crops and livestock was added to the scope of the Enterprise Statistics Program. In the 1987 program, agricultural industries were excluded. The scope of the 1987 enterprise program was enlarged by including companies who report Federal income tax and are classified in the following industries: Trucking and Courier Service, Water Transportation, and Transportation Services, as well as Hospitals. (Health services except hospitals were included in 1982.) The census of service industries also covered these industries and, in addition, included (in separate tables) establishments not subject to Federal income tax in the above industries plus museums, art galleries, and botanical and zoological gardens; membership sports and recreation clubs; fairs; and selected membership organizations. These tax-exempt establishments were not included in scope of the 1987 enterprise program.

CLASSIFICATIONS

In 1982, classifications for company data were based on the 1974 Enterprise Standard Industrial Classification (ESIC) manual and its 1977 supplement. ESIC codes were derived by adapting the four-digit Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) system to relate more meaningfully to consolidated company structure.

For 1987 classifications, the Standard Industrial Classification system was revised. The SIC structure was changed as some industry categories were merged to better reflect current industrial trends. The Enterprise Industrial Categories (EIC) were subsequently revised to conform with the new SIC structure. These changes limit the comparability of data between the 1982 and 1987 censuses. The kinds of businesses undergoing the most major changes are within the manufacturing categories. In 1987, there are a total of 146 enterprise industry categories as compared to 214 categories in 1982. Appendix C compares 1987 Enterprise Industry Categories with 1987 Standard Industrial classifications. Table 5 of this report displays historical data for the previous three economic censuses with 1987 data. All data are displayed based on 1974 two-digit ESIC codes.

History—Historical comparability of data in each enterprise industry category is also affected by the large diversified companies which significantly changed their industrial activities "mix" between 1982 and 1987 through internal company growth or merger, acquisition, or disposal of subsidiaries with resulting shifts in their industry category classifications. Such classification "transfers" of company aggregates (e.g., tabulated in industry category

"A" in 1982, but in industry category "B" in 1987) may constitute a significant part of the observed net historical changes in the company totals of some industry categories shown in this report.

COMPARABILITY WITH OTHER PUBLICATIONS

Other Economic Census Publications

Since both the concepts and the coverage of the economic censuses were generally applicable to these tabulations, the comparable totals appearing in this report and the various 1987 Economic Censuses publications are virtually the same. It is important to note that establishment figures in this publication are based on the company classification of their owning firms, and are not directly comparable with any of the regular economic censuses totals, which were tabulated only on an establishment classification basis.

For multiestablishment companies, various editing checks were routinely made to verify the internal consistency of each company's establishment records when aggregated to company data totals. Checks of the establishment data were also made against the totals available from the ES-9100. Significant errors in the establishment or company data records revealed by these edits were corrected.

Whenever possible, the correction of such errors uncovered during the company edit of establishment records was also carried to the regular economic censuses tables. In many instances, however, the company edit operation came after the census industry totals had been published.

APPENDIX B.

Explanation of Terms

ANNUAL PAYROLL

Payroll includes all forms of compensation, such as salaries, wages, commissions, bonuses, vacation allowances, sick-leave pay, and the value of payments in kind (e.g., free meals and lodgings) paid during the year to all employees. Tips and gratuities received by employees from patrons and reported to employers are included. For corporations, it includes amounts paid to officers and executives; for unincorporated businesses, it does not include profit or other compensation of proprietors or partners. Payroll is reported before deductions for social security, income tax, insurance, union dues, etc. This definition of payroll is the same as that used by the IRS on form 941.

AUXILIARIES

Auxiliaries are defined as establishments whose employees are primarily engaged in general and business administration; management; research, development, and testing; warehousing; electronic data processing; and other supporting services performed centrally for other establishments of the same company rather than for other companies or the general public.

Each auxiliary reported in the economic censuses was assigned a code based on the standard industrial classification (SIC) of the establishments within the company for which the auxiliary performed its supporting services. These "industry-serviced" codes reflect SIC major group (two-digit) or industry group (three-digit) rather than individual industry (four-digit) classifications, because the auxiliaries of the larger and more industrially diversified companies (which accounted for the bulk of auxiliary activities) typically served establishments classified in more than one industry group or industry.

CAPITAL EXPENDITURES

Capital expenditures are defined as all expenditures made during the year for which depreciation accounts are ordinarily maintained. Expenditures for new additions and alterations to plant, new machinery and equipment used for replacement or additions, capitalized development and exploration of mineral properties, and used plant and machinery acquired from others are considered capital expenditures. Expenditures for new plants or machinery under construction that were not yet in operation during the census year, capital leases entered into after January 1, 1987, and expenditures for machinery rented to others also are included. Capital expenditures do not include expenditures for land and depletable assets or the cost of maintenance and repairs normally charged as current operating expenses.

New capital expenditures are calculated as total capital expenditures minus expenditures made for used plant and machinery. Tables present new capital expenditures detailed by buildings and structures, autos and trucks, computer and peripheral equipment, all other new machinery and equipment plus all "other" capital expenditures not classified elsewhere. "Other" capital expenditures include, but are not limited to, miscellaneous items such as livestock and computer software.

COMPANY

A company is a business consisting of one domestic establishment or more that the reporting firm specifies under its ownership or control at the end of 1987. If a company owned or controlled other companies, all establishments of the subsidiaries are included as part of the owning or controlling company. In this report, the terms company, firm, and enterprise are used interchangeably.

DEPRECIABLE ASSETS

Depreciable assets are defined as the assets of a company and its subsidiaries for which depreciation and amortization accounts are ordinarily maintained. Depreciable assets are comprised of: (a) buildings and structures, (b) machinery and equipment, and (c) other depreciable assets, and are stated at end-of-prior-year and end-of-current-year values. The gross value of such assets represents the acquisition cost (original cost) to the company, while the net value represents the gross value less accumulated depreciation and amortization. These depreciable assets data include the value of all improvements and new construction in progress but not yet completed at the end of the year. The value of machinery, equipment, buildings, structures, etc., owned by the company and subsidiaries but leased or rented to others is also included. Tangible assets that are depreciable but are not categorized as either buildings and structures or machinery and equipment are considered other depreciable assets (e.g., legal libraries, livestock, computer software, and other miscellaneous assets). Excluded are depreciable assets of a company and its subsidiaries in foreign countries.

It should be noted in comparing the end-of-prior-year and end-of-current-year depreciable assets data that most acquisitions occurring during 1987 are treated on the ES-9100 on a "pooling-of-interest" basis. However, non-comparability can result between end-of-prior-year and end-of-current-year depreciable assets when companies treat acquisitions as "purchases." For more information on the "purchase" treatment, as well as the "pooling-of-interest" treatment of acquisitions, see the Sources of Data in appendix A.

DEPRECIATION

Depreciation is the process of allocating the cost of an asset to the period of benefit. Depreciation charged against assets acquired since the beginning of the year along with depreciation charged against assets sold or retired during the year are components of this category.

EMPLOYMENT

Employment in the economic census is defined as all employees, full-time and part-time, as reported on establishment payrolls during specified pay periods during 1987. Persons on paid sick leave, paid holidays, and paid vacations are included as employees, as are salaried officers and executives of corporations. However, proprietors and partners of unincorporated businesses are not considered employees.

ENTERPRISE

For this report, an enterprise is the same as a "company." See "company" for a detailed definition.

ENTERPRISE INDUSTRY CATEGORY

An enterprise industry category is a group of four-digit SIC industries that were specifically designed to relate to enterprises rather than to establishments. It is an adaptation of the four-digit SIC classification system to provide an industrial classification system that is meaningful in expressing consolidated company aggregates of the establishment data collected in the economic censuses. For this purpose, various economic and statistical criteria were developed that are considered to be the most relevant in describing the economic characteristics of enterprises rather than establishments. These criteria, which are similar to those used in 1982, were as follows:

1. At least 50,000 employees in an industry or receipts of $2 billion or more.
2. An industry specialization ratio of at least 70 percent for nonmanufacturing and 60 percent for manufacturing.
3. Compatibility with the SIC systems for establishments and the enterprise SIC.

4. Compatibility with the 1982 Enterprise Statistics classification system (where not incompatible with other criteria).

Enterprise industry categories are grouped to form industry divisions representing major sectors of the economy—construction, manufacturing, retail trade, etc.

ESTABLISHMENTS

An establishment in the economic census is defined as a business or industrial unit at a single physical location which produces or distributes goods or performs services. One significant deviation in this establishment concept occurs in the construction industry. Relatively permanent offices that have the responsibility for performing management and other administrative functions for one or more construction projects or sites are classified as operating construction establishments. However, an establishment primarily engaged in general administrative, management, or support functions performed centrally for one or more construction establishments is considered an auxiliary.

FIRM

For this report, "firm" is the same as "company." See "company" for a detailed description.

FRINGE BENEFITS

Fringe benefits are defined as the employer costs for those benefits required by Federal and State law along with any additional company-funded benefits.

Required by law—Payments to programs required under Federal and State legislation such as: employer's social security tax, unemployment tax, workers' compensation, and State disability insurance programs.

Voluntary programs—Employers reported the cost of all programs offered by the company, but not required by Federal or State legislation. For programs financed by employer and employee contributions, only the data on employer contributions were collected. These include benefits such as: (1) insurance premiums on hospital and medical plans, (2) life insurance premiums, (3) pension plans, (4) union-negotiated benefits, (5) welfare plans, and (6) stock purchase plans. The total employer cost of fringe benefits added to annual payroll equals total compensation.

INVENTORIES

Inventories are defined as the balance of goods on hand, such as raw materials, supplies, work-in-process, and finished goods and merchandise on hand for resale. In the 1987 censuses, the inventory inquiry was designed to collect unduplicated, consolidated information concerning all of the inventories owned by the enterprises and which are located within the United States.

Companies were requested to report their inventories at cost or market using generally accepted accounting methods. Specifically, respondents were asked to report on a LIFO basis (LIFO reserve and LIFO value of inventories) and/or on a non-LIFO basis. All values were to include progress billings.

LARGE COMPANY

A large company is defined as having 500 employees or more. The qualifier of 500 employees is more for practical considerations inherent in the records used to prepare this report, rather than for economic or statistical considerations. The qualifier was chosen because enough large companies exist in most categories to permit publishing considerable data without disclosing the activities of individual companies.

PURCHASED ADVERTISING SERVICES

Purchased advertising services are those services purchased by companies for advertising, such as television, radio, and newspapers.

RENTAL PAYMENTS

Rental payments represent all payments made or accrued by a company or its subsidiaries during the year for plant and equipment rented or leased from other companies.

Miscellaneous rental expenses that are not elsewhere categorized (e.g., security personnel, data processing) are considered other rental payments. Capital leases are reported as assets and not as rental payments.

ROYALTY PAYMENTS

Royalty payments are the compensation actually paid to unaffiliated organizations or individuals for the use of intangible property rights (patents, trademarks, copyrights processes, use of natural resources, etc.).

SALES AND RECEIPTS

Sales and receipts are defined as the receipts for goods produced or distributed or services provided. Included are all operating receipts from taxable operations, as well as total revenue from tax-exempt activities. Excluded from sales are nonoperating receipts, returns on investments and interest. Intracompany transfers are also excluded from the consolidated (net) sales and receipts reported by multiestablishment companies.

Some establishments of a multiestablishment company transfer part or all of their products to other establishments of the company for further processing or distribution, rather than shipping them directly to outside customers. Since these intracompany shipments are assigned approximate commercial values (for the basic economic census purpose of measuring gross output by the industry classification of establishments), the gross cumulation of establishment figures usually overstates the actual net sales and receipts of a company, especially those of the larger multiestablishment companies.

PUBLICATION PROGRAM

1987 ENTERPRISE STATISTICS

Publications of the 1987 Enterprise Statistics are described below. Publication order forms for the specific reports may be obtained from any Department of Commerce district office or from the Data User Services Division, Customer Services (Publications), Bureau of the Census, Washington, DC 20233.

The enterprise statistics program consists of summary tabulations of the data obtained from the various censuses (manufactures, mineral industries, distributive trades, service industries, transportation industries, and construction industries) included within the scope of the 1987 Economic Censuses conducted by the Bureau of the Census. Similar programs were conducted in the 1954, 1958, 1963, 1967, 1972, 1977, and 1982 Economic Censuses.

Essentially, the enterprise statistics program involves aggregating the census data records of establishments that are under common ownership or control and assigning company codes to show various economic characteristics of the firms that own or control the establishments. Statistics for the enterprise-establishment relationships are tabulated by type of company organization, by company size, and by industry classification. Data are also cross tabulated to indicate company industrial diversification patterns. These statistics are arranged in two publications, one focusing on financial data for large companies only, the other presenting basic data items and relationships for all covered companies. One unique group of establishments, called auxiliaries, are examined in detail in a separate publication.

LARGE COMPANIES—1 REPORT(ES87-1)

This is a new report that presents data for companies with 500 or more employees covered in the 1987 Economic Censuses. National-level figures are provided by company industry classification on number of companies, number of employees, number of establishments, annual payroll, sales and receipts, inventories, capital expenditures, assets, depreciation charges, and selected operating expenses. Also included in this report are data by employment and asset size, as well as selected historical statistics.

AUXILIARY ESTABLISHMENTS— 1 REPORT(ES87-2)

This report presents data on separately reported auxiliary units of multiestablishment firms covered in the 1987 Economic Censuses. Data for these unique establishments are distributed by the industry classification of the operating establishments they service, by the type of management or supporting service function they provide, by their status as a headquarters location, by their employment size, and by their geographic location. Detailed statistics are provided to show the sales and receipts, inventories, assets, depreciation charges, capital expenditures, fringe benefits, and selected operating expenses for auxiliary establishments.

COMPANY SUMMARY—1 REPORT(ES87-3)

This report presents data on structural patterns of American industrial organization in terms of the primary industrial activity of companies, their employment and sales size, their geographic location, their industry specialization and concentration, and other characteristics for all 1987 census reporting firms and the establishments they own or control. Statistics on auxiliary establishments are presented by the industry classification of their owning company. Also included in this report are company-establishment cross tabulations, showing patterns of vertical integration and diversification among industrial firms and selected historical data.

MICROFICHE

All published data are also available on microfiche.

PUBLIC-USE COMPUTER TAPES AND COMPACT DISCS

Selected data also are available on public-use computer tapes and compact discs-read only memory (CD-ROM). For the selected data, tape and discs will provide the same information found in the reports. Computerized data products are available for users who wish to summarize, rearrange, or process large amounts of data. These products, with corresponding technical documentation, are sold by Data User Services Division, Customer Services (Tapes), Bureau of the Census, Washington, DC 20233.

OTHER ECONOMIC CENSUS REPORTS

Data on retail trade, wholesale trade, service industries, construction industries, manufactures, mineral industries, transportation, minority-owned business enterprises, and women-owned businesses also are available from the 1987 Economic Censuses. A separate series of reports covers the censuses of outlying areas—Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands of the United States, Guam, and the Northern Marianas. Separate announcements describing these reports are available free of charge from the Data User Services Division, Customer Services (Publications), Bureau of the Census, Washington, DC 20233.
