52	1.2.1.2.1.4.1			X		Brokering and dealing services for financial promissory notes	Providing brokering and dealing services for financial promissory notes, which are notes subscribed by financial lessors and financial factoring companies, for circulation in the financial markets. The risk assumed by the investor depends on the solidity of the issuing company, since there is no specific guarantee. The investor may know the degree of risk, according to the opinion of the securities rating institution. The financial lessors and financial factoring companies determine the term of the notes on a case by case basis, but it must not be less than one year nor more than three. The issuers freely determine, in each case, the interest rate they will be obliged to pay, with interest to be paid for specific periods in arrears. To determine the appropriate rates they may use as a reference the rates for bank instruments, as well as the yields in primary placement of CETES and BONDES. The intermediaries will collect the remuneration which they openly agree with their clients. These are traded by the brokerage house and credit institutions; the latter must negotiate through the brokerage houses. These securities may be acquired by natural or legal persons, of Mexican or foreign nationality, as well as by institutional investors.	522110 523110 523120
52	1.2.1.2.1.4.2			X		Brokering and dealing services for ordinary participation certificates	Providing brokering and dealing services for ordinary participation certificates, which are securities issued by a credit institution in the form of a trust, whose capital resources are made up of goods contributed to it. In spite of the fact that the issuer is a credit institution, it is only liable up to the amount of the fiduciary capital represented by the personal property (see note) contributed to the trust. These certificates are generally placed for terms of 3 to 8 years and may be amortized completely at the maturity date or by partial redemptions before that date. There may be a grace period for the amortization of the principal, that is a time following placement during which only interest is paid, and no principal is redeemed. The issuing bank may determine the yield, which is generally above the net yields offered by government or bank instruments. The intermediaries will collect the remuneration which they openly agree with their clients. These are traded the brokerage house and credit institutions; the latter must negotiate through the brokerage houses acting by way of trusts, mandates, or commissions may be acquired by natural or legal persons, of Mexican or foreign nationality, as well as by institutional investors.	522110 523110 523120

52	1.2.1.2.1.5.1			X		Brokering and dealing services for medium-term promissory notes	Providing brokering and dealing services for medium-term promissory notes, which are promissory notes destined to circulate in the securities markets, issued by Mexican companies for the medium term. The risk of these instruments is evaluated by a securities rating company, which takes into consideration the issuing company's capacity for repayment and liquidity, and the guarantee or banker's reference backing the issue. The issuing company may determine the yield, which is normally at a rate above the net yields offered by government or bank instruments. The securities will generate interest with the periodicity determined by the issuer, and for that purpose they carry attached numbered coupons. The intermediaries will collect the remuneration which they openly agree with their clients. These are traded by the brokerage house and credit institutions; the latter must negotiate through the brokerage houses acting by way of trusts, mandates, or commissions. 52	1.6.1.5.1.3			X		Investment banking trusts	Investment Trusts are an investment alternative in which the investors (trustors) contribute funds in domestic currency, to be administered by the trustee, and which may be used for the acquisition and/or management of securities, or for extending credit. The objective of the Investment Trusts is to offer investors the possibility of protecting and increasing their net worth without having to take risky decisions. By the form in which they are constituted, Investment Trusts may be of two types: a) Open: they allow new participants after being constituted; b) Closed: once in operation, no new participants are allowed. The Money Market Division of the (Central) Bank has an Open Investment Trust (in fixed-income securities) through the Customs and Excise Account, which is a Trust created for importing companies which are also exporters and for natural persons undertaking business activities, who elect to pay the corresponding taxes (taxes on external trade, and VAT) through deposits. This trust invests the funds in a portfolio of fixed-income government securities, and is made up of participation units.	NA
