Introduction

This chapter ranges from colonial America to conditions in the United States today. It covers age, agriculture, and Asian Americans; it includes condominiums, crime, and capital costs. The reason for its variety? It describes reference guides and statistical anthologies, each spanning a myriad of social and economic facts. It also covers data reports—like the Quarterly Financial Report for Manufacturing, Mining, and Trade Corporations—that defy our subject arrangement by chapter. Overlapping inevitably occurs in other chapters, too.

This chapter has three parts: the Economic Census, General Reference, and General Statistics. The Economic Census section describes both statistical and reference products, each based on various components of the 1992 census. The General Reference section describes reference sources, such as guides, without statistics—except to illustrate some point, in methodology, for example. By contrast, the General Statistics section covers sources that include statistics. The Statistical Abstract of the United States appears in the second section because it has statistics—even though it has bibliographies and directories, too.

Guides, methodologies, and economic census files and reports that focus on only one subject appear in the chapter on that subject. For example, Maps and More: Your Guide to Census Geography is located in the Geography chapter. To find other references, see the Subject Index and the Title Index.

You may also need to refer to other sources. The U.S. Bureau of the Census Library, Washington DC 20233, for example, provides microform for some Census Bureau statistics out of print for many years. In addition, there are other Federal sources of statistics. Appendix B contains a section entitled ''Federal Statistical Reports by Agency,'' which focuses on the most important printed sources. Also Federal agencies with statistical responsibilities are listed with addresses and telephone numbers under ''Other Federal Sources of Statistics'' in appendix B.

The National Technical Information Service (703-487-4650) is a Federal source. It publishes geographic codes used with census data—the Federal Information Processing codes. It is also a good source not only for the latest computer tapes on technical topics but also for information out of print. The U.S. Department of Commerce, Office of Business Analysis (202-482-1986), issues a quarterly compact disc covering many kinds of data, National Economic, Social, and Environmental Data Bank. Other Federal agencies and Congress issue statistics, too.

In addition, the Government Printing Office (GPO) issues such reference series as:

Government Depository Libraries (including addresses and telephone numbers not in the library list in appendix B of this catalog)

Standard Industrial Classification Manual (and supplements)

Standard Occupational Classification Manual

For GPO ordering information, see the Government Periodicals and Subscription Services, Price List 36, free from GPO (202-512-1800) and GPO bookstores listed in appendix B of this catalog.

Many State governments publish their own statistical abstracts—and sponsor data center organizations noted in appendix B. ''Not-for-profit'' organizations and private firms also issue data. A visit to a large or specialized library may be the best starting point for identifying statistical sources outside the government.

This chapter is mainly alphabetical by title, but various titles appear by series number or topic under Data Developments and U.S. Bureau of the Census—Factfinder for the Nation. In this chapter, numbers in titles—1993, for example—are alphabetized as spelled.

For additional references, see the section below entitled Data Products Issued October-December 1995. Listings of subsequent releases appear in the Monthly Product Announcement and Daily List (see abstracts numbered 44 and 15.5, respectively).

NOTE—The number above the abstracts makes the indexes easier to use. It should not be used for ordering products.

Data Products Issued October-December 1995

The following data products were issued during the last quarter of 1995. Abstracts for some may appear in this chapter; generally, though, they were published too late for an abstract to be prepared. Unless noted otherwise, these data products may still be available from the Government Printing Office (GPO). Orders should include the GPO Stock Number. However, availability is subject to change and reports may be superseded. For the latest ordering information, contact Customer Services, Bureau of the Census (301-457-4100).

This list excludes periodicals issued more often than once a year. Any such relevant periodicals are described later in this chapter and listed in appendix A.

Reports carried in full or in part on CENDATA, our online information service, are identified by the word ''CENDATA'' in brackets at the end of the report listing.

1987 Economic Censuses CD-ROM: Volume 1: Report Series, Release 1E

Geographic areas covered and subject content—Similar to the 1992 Economic Census CD-ROM, abstract number 1.4, with data for 1987.

Reference materials—1987 Economic Censuses CD-ROM: Volume 1: Report Series, Release 1E: Parts 1 and 2 Technical Documentation contains descriptive information about the file and a record layout. One free copy accompanies each file order. When ordered separately, it is available for $15 from Customer Services.

One compact disk (CD-ROM). $150. Released 1994. Order from Customer Services. See Ordering Products section.

New! (1.4)

1992 Economic Census CD-ROM: Volume 1, Report Series (CD-EC92-1)

Data time span—1992, with some comparative data for earlier years.

Geographic areas covered—United States; in area series files: States, metropolitan areas, counties, and places of 2,500 or more inhabitants.

Subject content—Presents the statistics found in most 1992 Economic Census reports (reports not to be included are ''Miscellaneous Subject'' reports and Retail Trade Subject report No. 2) plus, for several data series, additional detail not available in print. Monthly Retail Trade sales data, 1967-1993, also are included (abstract number 275). The data are being issued on 10 cumulative discs, over the period mid-1994 through 1996. Each new disc will supersede the prior disc.

NOTE—A Volume 2A, ZIP Code Statistics provides data by five-digit ZIP Code from the censuses of retail trade, service industries, and agriculture. Volume 2B will include these data and the location of manufacturing plants by ZIP Code. While 2A costs $150, a subscription to this Volume 2 series (A and B) costs $200.

Compact disc (CD-ROM). Volume 1F, superseding all past editions. $150. More cumulative editions are planned: 1G, 1I, 1J, and (included in this subscription) Volume 4, Nonemployer Statistics. A discount subscription rate may be available.

Order from Customer Services. See Ordering Products section.

CD-EC92-1F. $150. Includes all States in the Geographic Area Series of the 1992 Census of Retail Trade, abstract number 200.5; Census of Wholesale Trade, abstract number 215; Census of Service Industries, abstract number 230; and 1992 Financial, Insurance, and Real Estate Industries, abstract number 235. The disc also includes 1992 Truck Inventory and Use Survey data (all States but no U.S. Summary), abstract number 1505 and the Census of Transportation, Communication, and Utilities: Geographic Area Series, abstract number 1501. Moreover, the disc contains the Numerical List of Manufactured Products, abstract number 901; 1992 Census of Manufactures, Preliminary Industry Series (all industries), abstract number 920, its final Industry Series (some industries), abstract number 921 and the 1993 Annual Survey of Manufactures (product data), abstract number 960; 1992 Census of Mineral Industries, Preliminary Industry Series, abstract number 951 and its final Industry Series (all four-digit industries), abstract number 952. 1992 Census of Construction Industries, Preliminary Industries Series (all industries) abstract number 404; and its final Industry Series (some industries), abstract number 405. Monthly Retail Trade, 1967-1993, abstract number 275; and selected statistics from prior censuses and surveys. This disc also includes establishment and firm size data for the following: 1992 census fields retail trade; wholesale trade; service industries; transportation, communications and utilities; financial, insurance, and real estate industries. The disc also includes selected statistics from earlier census and surveys. Technical documentation is included on the disc; a User's Guide also is on the disc and provided in paper copy. The following software is on the disc: EXTRACT 1.5, GO92, and Doc View.

1992 Economic Censuses: Geographic Reference Manual

See abstract number 615 in the Geography chapter.

1992 Industry and Product Classification Manual (SIC Basis) (EC92-R-3)

Subject content—Describes the classification system used to group establishments by industrial activity in the economic programs of the Bureau of the Census. This report is based on the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) Manual, issued by the U.S. Office of Management and Budget. To provide more detail, the Census Bureau has extended many of the codes published in the SIC manual. This report lists industrial activities by their code numbers, as well as alphabetically by industrial activity.

This classification system is used for the agriculture census and economic censuses: retail trade; wholesale trade; and the service, transportation, manufactures, mineral, and construction industries.

459 pp. 1992. $30 (includes $3 handling fee).

Available from National Technical Information Service, 5285 Port Royal Road, Springfield, Virginia 22161, 703-487-4650. Cite Order No. PB89-203772LCQ.

GENERAL REFERENCE

The reference section in this chapter applies to reports and other products that provide information but not (except perhaps in examples) statistics. Reference sources that stress the subjects of particular chapters—foreign trade, for example—as a rule, appear in those chapters. For reports and files with tables of data, see the General Statistics section of this chapter. Each section describes titles alphabetically. (For additional information on data references, see the Introduction to this chapter.)

(2.8)

Age Search Information (Revised)

Subject content—Describes the Census Bureau's age search program, which was originally developed to help people obtain proof of their age through census records.

This booklet provides background information on how the Census Bureau's records can be used to obtain personal data, explains what the program can or cannot do, and gives the specific steps to take when requesting information. It also cites other materials useful for genealogical research.

The publication describes the age search process and answers questions about census records and transcripts. It also provides genealogical sources and references for information not found in census materials, and explains the way age search inquiries are handled.

NOTE—This report is available in full or in part online (see page 2). A free two-page change sheet was issued.

Census Advisory Committees of the African American, American Indian and Alaska Native, Asian and Pacific Islander, and Hispanic Populations: Minutes and Reports of Committee Recommendations

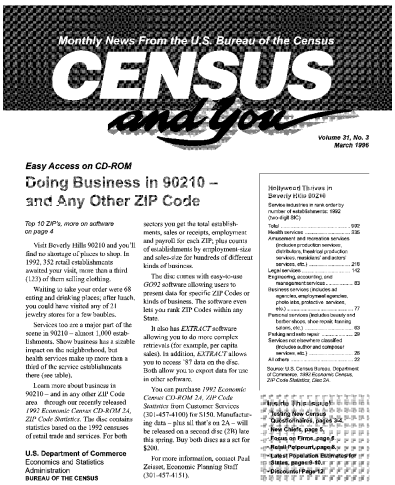

Subject content—Presents minutes of the census advisory committees listed in the title. The title is also cited as Minutes and Reports of Race and Ethnic Advisory Committees. Meetings are held at least twice a year, generally in the spring and fall. Over the years the reports have covered a wide range of topics including promotion and outreach activities, census recruitment, enumeration procedures, methodology and procedures for coverage improvement, data products and content dissemination, and legislative issues. The reports have also featured recommendations by the advisory committees and the Census Bureau's responses.

The groups which met were reestablished for 1994. Their meetings commenced November 1994, focusing primarily on issues regarding the 2000 census.

NOTE—In the 1993 Catalog, this report was cited in the 1990 Census chapter as Minutes and Reports of Committee Recommendations: 1990 Census Advisory Committees on the American Indian and Alaska Native Populations, on the Asian and Pacific Islander Populations, on the Black Population, and on the Hispanic Population. (See also abstract number 50.)

Doing Business in 90210 – and Any Other ZIP Code

Visit Beverly Hills 90210 and you'll find no shortage of places to shop. In 1992, 352 retail establishments awaited your visit, more than a third (133) of them selling clothing.

Waiting to take your order were 68 eating and drinking places; after lunch, you could have visited any of 21 jewelry stores for a few baubles.

Services too are a major part of the scene in 90210 – almost 1,000 establishments. Show business has a sizable impact on the neighborhood, but health services make up more than a third of the service establishments there (see table).

Learn more about business in 90210 – and in any other ZIP Code area – through our recently released 1992 Economic Census CD-ROM 2A, ZIP Code Statistics. The disc contains statistics based on the 1992 censuses of retail trade and services. For both sectors you get the total establishments, sales or receipts, employment and payroll for each ZIP, plus counts of establishments by employment-size and sales-size for hundreds of different kinds of business.

The disc comes with easy-to-use GO92 software allowing users to present data for specific ZIP Codes or kinds of business. The software even lets you rank ZIP Codes within any State.

It also has EXTRACT software allowing you to do more complex retrievals (for example, per capita sales). In addition, EXTRACT allows you to access ST data on the disc. Both allow you to export data for use in other software.

You can purchase 1992 Economic Census CD-ROM 2A, ZIP Code Statistics from Customer Services (301-457-4100) for $150. Manufacturing data – plus all that's in 2A – will be released on a second disc (2B) late this spring. Buy both discs as a set for $200.

Census and You

Frequency of issue—Monthly.

Subject content—Contains articles describing newly issued reports, new data files and software, data collection efforts being planned, and sources of assistance for data users. Developments in all census statistical areas are highlighted, with the principal emphasis on demographic, social, housing, and economic data for States and smaller areas. This newsletter keeps users current on data from the 1990 census. It also publishes key economic indicators (such as housing starts, retail sales, and the Consumer Price Index). Articles dealing with statistical developments and data use outside the Census Bureau appear occasionally along with information about the data products available from other Federal agencies. (See also Monthly Product Announcement.)

NOTE—Bimonthly issues may appear (for example, November-December 1995). This series is available in full or in part online (see page 2).

Census Bureau Education Products Program

Subject content—Provides, in a series of reports, teaching materials based on Census Bureau data and related information. Designed for immediate use in the classroom, these reports fit into a teacher's existing procedures, rather than requiring a new approach. Subjects and educational levels vary. For example, reports on the same topic—population trends—offer students at different levels different educational experiences. For elementary school students, it provides practice in mathematics, geography, and language arts. For high school students, it can offer experience in mapping, data analysis, and research. The series also offers students social and civic perspectives; for instance, it involved students in the redistricting process taking place in their own State.

NOTE—Cited in the 1994 Catalog as Census Bureau Teaching Resource. A free two-page errata sheet was issued January 1992. See also other teaching resources in this chapter, including abstract 68.

Pages vary. Single copies free. In limited supply, orders filled on a first come, first served basis. Available from the Customer Liaison Office (301-457-1210).

Census Catalog and Guide: 1995

Subject content—Describes data products issued from mid-1993 through 1994 by the Census Bureau. This report also describes programs and services. In addition, it provides abstracts of the publications, CD-ROM's, computer tapes, microfiche, maps, diskettes, and items faxed or on line. The abstracts include the data time span, the geographic scope, and the subject content, along with ordering information.

The report also provides guide features, such as a telephone contact list for data specialists at the Census Bureau, the State Data Centers, and other data processing service centers, as well as a list of Federal and census depository libraries. Other guide features include an overview, detailed subject and title indexes, descriptions of key statistical reports from other Federal agencies, and special charts—for example, a product schedule and a guide to topics in the 1990 census.

NOTE—The 1995 edition began a new cumulation. The 1994 edition completed a cumulation, which began with the 1990 report. The 1989 report was the last in a cumulative series beginning 1980. Many data users may wish to retain the 1989 and 1994 editions. This series began in 1946. (See also Bureau of the Census Catalog of Publications, 1790-1972, abstract number 5.)

The title of the annual editions changed from Bureau of the Census Catalog to Census Catalog and Guide with the 1985 edition, published in 1985.

Census, CD-ROM, and You! New Horizons for Microcomputer Users of Census Bureau Data

Subject content—Presents an overview—updated in 1993—covering information available on CD-ROM (compact disc—read-only-memory) from the Census Bureau, including material from the 1987 Economic Censuses and the 1990 Census of Population and Housing. Illustrations show users exactly how the data appear on the discs.

The booklet briefly describes a variety of software, including GO, which was developed by the Census Bureau and is included on many of its CD-ROM's. It also has some information about software from other sources.

22 pp. 1993 (revised). Single copies free. Additional copies $1 each.

Daily List

Frequency of issue—Generally, daily. (See note.)

Subject content—Provides a list of all reports; technical documentation; maps; microfiche; data files (tapes, microcomputer diskettes, and compact discs—CD-ROM's); paperprints; and press releases issued by the Census Bureau on the day of date. In addition, the Daily List indicates which products are sold by the Census Bureau and which by the Government Printing Office, and indicates which are available, in whole or in part, on CENDATA.

This product also lists any publications that were sent for printing, together with the requested return-from-print date.

NOTE—The Daily List will not be published if no more than one or two products have been released on a given day. Two or more days will be cumulated.

1-2 pp. Daily. $1.50 per issue. Annual subscription price is $300.

Data Developments

Subject content—Describes data files succinctly. Typically, an individual issue summarizes the contents of a data file recently released by the Census Bureau. It provides information on the file's subject matter, geographic coverage, reference materials, and availability. Order forms are in the back of each issue.

Listed below are the Data Developments grouped by subject. Some were cited in the 1995 Catalog.

NOTE—Superseded reports are no longer available and not listed. Moreover, reports issued before XVII (published mainly in 1994) have been dropped from this issue, except for items from the 1980 and 1987 censuses for users who sometimes compare them with releases from the latest censuses.

Monthly Product Announcement

Frequency of issue—Monthly.

Subject content—Lists all of the Census Bureau's publications, maps, technical documentation, paper listings, and data files (tapes, microcomputer diskettes, online data, and files on CD-ROM) that became available during a month. Ordering information (number of pages, number of discs, cost, and the like) and sometimes a brief description of the product's contents accompany each entry.

Some publications and data files that are expected to become available within the next few weeks are identified. In addition, forms for ordering products and occasional articles on new services or product lines are included. (See also Census and You.)

NOTE—While this series describes only selected data products (merely listing the others), it provides the principal means of updating information in the current Census Catalog and Guide.

Pages vary. Monthly. Free (subscription or individual copies).

National Clearinghouse for Census Data Services Address List

Subject content—Lists, by ZIP Code, all registrants in the National Clearinghouse for Census Data Services indicating name, address, and telephone number. These are private organizations that, for a fee, can assist users of Census Bureau data (such as the 1990 summary tape files) and other information. For example, among a variety of services, some firms provide tape copies, printouts, and extracts of those data. For each organization, the list notes the services provided. The report also lists industry newsletters and journals. This report is available in full or in part online (see page 2).

For services offered to users of the Census Bureau's geographic data base, see also TIGER Resource List, abstract number 642 in the Geography chapter.

Pages vary. Issued periodically. Free.

Product Profile Series (PP-1)*

Subject content—Presents, in a series of brief pamphlets, descriptions of data products. Each profile describes the content and geography of a file. The pamphlet includes key definitions, describes the media and their requirements, and may cite short quotations from users about their experiences with the product. Some profiles have charts showing the subject or geographic coverage in the media and also tables, graphs, or maps based on the data in the product. Some provide photographs of data displays from CD's. Items in the profile series are planned for release on the Internet. All profiles come with complete ordering information for the data files they describe.

State Data Center Program Coordinating Organizations (Includes Business and Industry Data Center Components)

Subject content—Lists, by State, the names, addresses (including postal and, for some, fax and E-mail), and telephone numbers of the coordinating agencies of the State Data Center/Business and Industry Data Center Program. The report also indentifies by code the services provided.

Reflecting the cooperation of the Census Bureau and the States, this program, established in 1977, supplies information and data to the public through a network of State agencies, universities, chambers of commerce, and libraries and through regional and local governments.

NOTE—This listing is also part of the Data Information Centers list in appendix B of this Catalog. However, the list in the Catalog includes the many affiliates in addition to the lead and coordinating agencies in the publication described above in the ''subject content,'' which also is available in full or in part online (see page 2).

Technical Paper No. 62: Americans Overseas in U.S. Censuses

Subject content—Presents a detailed historical record of how Americans living overseas have been counted in the censuses since first noted in 1830. The report traces variations in tabulating them from decade to decade.

The text and charts show whether they were counted and who was included. Counts have covered, for instance, military personnel—such as those on ships, civilian Federal employees, and their dependents. Occasionally, private citizens were also included. In some instances, the counts, assigned to ''home States,'' have been used for apportionment, though not for drawing legislative districts.

In addition to legislative and statistical considerations, the report notes other concerns (such as the presence of military conflicts) that have influenced decisions on counting people overseas. The censuses have relied on administrative records, direct enumeration, or both, with the focus on the number of persons rather than their characteristics.

Subject content—Gives the historical background of the United States population and housing enumeration from the first count in 1790 through the census of 1990. The report describes evolving procedures for collecting and tabulating data. It also shows the principal data collection forms for 1790 through 1990. In addition, it identifies by State and year (from 1850 to 1885) the sources for mortality schedules. The report also includes a bibliography and a guide to census schedules and questionnaires now available to the public.

X-11.2 and X-11Q.2 Seasonal Adjustment Software

Cited in the 1993 Catalog.

Subject content—Contains two seasonal adjustment programs that are based on the ratio-to-moving-average method. The programs develop a moving average smoothing of the original series as a preliminary estimate of the trend-cycle curve, compute ratios of the original series to the trend-cycle estimates to ''detrend'' the series, and estimate seasonal factors from these ratios. Both programs can adjust series that range from 3 to 30 years in length.

The X-11.2 program, which is used to adjust monthly series, carries out several iterations of the ratio-to-moving-average procedure with a variety of options to aid in adjusting series with special characteristics.

The X-11Q.2 program, which is used to adjust quarterly series, follows the same basic procedure as the X-11.2 program.

NOTE—Through a recent improvement, both programs include a ''model-based'' smoothing option.

Reference materials—Each order is accompanied, at no charge, by three documents: Supplement to Census Technical Paper 15: X-11.2: The Uses and Features of X-11.2 and X-11Q.2; X-11.2 Supplement: Namelist Variables for X-11.2 and X-11Q.2; and Sliding Spans Diagnostics for Seasonal and Related Adjustments.

Four diskettes. Total, $96.

These diskettes can be used only on IBM 386 PC or compatible microcomputers. Tabular and graphic displays require a printer with 132 column print mode with 17 characters per inch. The diskettes are issued in two versions. "Version 1" requires a microcomputer having a math coprocessor (8087, 80287, or 80387); "Version 2" may be used on a microcomputer without a math processor, but it is slower than "Version 1."

GENERAL STATISTICS

This section includes data products that provide statistics rather than reference information. However, in some instances, data products elude classification. The Census and You, abstract number 6.7, for example, is a newsletter that describes programs. But it also carries key data such as ''U.S. Statistics at a Glance,'' a monthly update of the economic indicators. (They also appear online, as described on page 2.) Also, conference papers, assumed to focus on programs and statistical methods, appear in the ''General Reference'' section of this chapter. Nevertheless, many papers include statistical tables.

Statistical products in this chapter are compendia, bringing together information from varied sources. These include various parts of the Census Bureau and (for some products) other government agencies and private organizations. Statistical products that stress the subjects of particular chapters—business, for example—as a rule, appear in those chapters.

This chapter also includes data from a particular census when combined with other data. For example, the chapter cites under ''Economic Census'' (beginning with abstract number 1.2) rather wide-ranging files that include, for instance, both retail trade and transportation. The present section ''General Statistics'' ranges even more widely, comprehending ''economics'' in a broad sense and including not only facts on particular industries and trades but also income and the labor force. ''General Statistics'' includes social data as well.

For reports without statistics—telephone contact lists, for example—see the ''General Reference'' section of this chapter. Each section lists titles alphabetically.

Annual Capital Expenditure: 1993 (ACE (93)-1)

Data time span—1993.

Geographic areas covered—United States.

Subject content—Presents capital expenditures for new and used structures and equipment by private nonfarm companies with 5 or more employees and businesses with less than five employees (including nonemployeers). For companies with five or more employees, capital expenditures data are published for 94 industries at 2-digit and selected 3-digit Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) code levels. For businesses with less than five employees, capital expenditures data are summarized, but no industry detail are available.

Data presented in this annual publication are designed to improve the quality of monthly economic indicators of investments and planned investments. Improvements in these measures will contribute to improved quarterly estimates of gross domestic product.

Historical Statistics of the United States, Colonial Times to 1970 (a Statistical Abstract supplement)

Data time span—1610 to 1970, with data for some of those years.

Geographic areas covered—Principally the United States, with some data for regions, States, and areas of historic interest.

Subject content—Features, in a two-volume set, information updating and expanding the second edition, Historical Statistics of the United States, Colonial Times to 1957.

This bicentennial edition includes more than 12,500 time series, mostly annual, providing a statistical history of U.S. social, economic, political, and geographic development during periods from 1610 to 1970.

The series are organized in 24 chapters and 50 subchapters on such subjects as population, vital statistics, health, labor, prices, income, welfare, climate, agriculture, forestry, fisheries, minerals, construction, housing, manufactures, transportation, communications, energy, commerce, banking, and government, among others, plus a separate chapter devoted to colonial and pre-Federal statistics. Accompanying text cites sources; defines technical terms; and includes discussion of methodology, qualifications, and reliability of the data. Also included are a time-period index (indicating which time series begin within specified 10- or 20-year time segments) and a detailed alphabetical subject index.

Data later than 1970 are presented for many of the series in annual issues of the Statistical Abstract of the United States. A special historical appendix in each Abstract, beginning with the 1975 edition, links the historical series to specific Abstract tables.

NOTE—A free one-page correction sheet was issued for these volumes. This report is available in full or in part online (see page 2).

Plant and Equipment Expenditures: Unpublished Data

Frequency of issue—(Quarterly and annual) Discontinued.

Geographic areas covered—United States.

Subject content—Provides statistics on expenditures for new plant and equipment in current dollars for private-nonfarm (SIC) groups 10 through 89 (with the exception of 88, Private Households) on an industry-enterprise basis. The statistics are presented in two data sets.

The detailed data set includes the following series: annual and quarterly, actual and planned, expenditures for plant and equipment combined; and annual expenditures for plant and for equipment. The beginning year for these series ranges from 1947 to 1955.

The summary data set includes annual and quarterly estimates of expenditures for plant and equipment combined; and annual estimated expenditures for plant and for equipment, tabulated separately. These series begin with 1947.

NOTE—This series ceased with the 1994 second quarter data report, issued September 1994. Also issued as a press release, the data were previously available in full or in part via fax (through FastFax, see page 2). See also Annual Capital Expenditure, abstract number 78.5 in this chapter.

The detailed data set is $50, the summary is $15, available on diskette or computer printout. (In diskette and printout form, the detailed data set automatically includes the summary data set for a total of $50.) Bureau of the Census Statistical Brief

Who Receives Child Support?

In the past, the Census Bureau has published data only on mothers who receive child support; in this Brief, for the first time, we also present information on fathers who receive it. The April Supplement of the Current Population Survey shows that, in spring 1992, there were 11.5 million persons in the United States who were custodial parents of never-married children under age 21 whose other parent was absent from the home. Though most (9.9 million) of these custodial parents were women, a large number (1.6 million) were men. The families they maintained comprised about one-third of families with own, never-married children under age 21.

Not only do women have better chances of being awarded child support ....

In spring 1992, about one-half (6.2 million) of the 11.5 million custodial parents were awarded child support; award rates were higher for mothers than for fathers (56 percent compared with 41 percent). (See chart, right.)

... they are more likely to actually receive payments.

Fewer than half of the custodial parents (5.3 million, or 46 percent) were supposed to receive child support payments in 1991. Of the 4.9 million women due payments, 76 percent received at least a portion of the amount they were owed. The corresponding rate for the 400,000 men owed money was 63 percent. (See chart below.)

More than 5 million custodial parents were without awards of financial support from their child(ren)'s other parent. About one-third of those without awards had chosen not to pursue them. Two other common reasons they did not have awards were that they did not want an award and that the non-custodial parent was unable to pay.

Much of the child support due goes unpaid.

A total of $11.9 billion was paid in child support in 1991, $5.8 billion

USA Counties 1994 (on CD-ROM)

Data time span—1969 to 1992.

Geographic areas covered—United States, States, and counties.

Subject content—Presents 2,844 data items on a variety of demographic, economic, and governmental subjects on CD-ROM. Emphasis is placed on extending time series, in contrast to many other statistical files that feature data for the most recent period. The files include county data published in the last three editions of the State and Metropolitan Area Data Book (1982, 1986, and 1991) and the last three editions of the County and City Data Book (1983, 1988, and 1994), as well as a number of data items not previously published.

The data files cover the following major subject groupings: age, agriculture, ancestry, banking, business, construction, crime, education, elections, government (Federal and local), health, households, housing, journey to work, labor force and employment, manufactures, money income, personal income and earnings, population, poverty, retail trade, service industries, social insurance and human services, veterans, vital statistics, and wholesale trade.

These files contain a collection of data from the Bureau of the Census and other Federal agencies, including the Bureau of Economic Analysis, the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and the Social Security Administration, as well as several private organizations, such as the American Medical Association and the Elections Research Center. The universe varies from item to item within the files. A file may cover, for example, all persons, all housing units, or all local governments. (The files are in 54 dBase III Plus™. Data retrieval software (''GO'') is included on the CD-ROM. The CD-ROM also includes LandView Mapping software and data base.)

Reference materials—USA Counties on CD-ROM Technical Documentation contains descriptive information about the file and a record layout. Technical documentation is on the CD-ROM, not available separately.
