[1]Because of extensive problems relating 1970 Alaska census divisions to 1972 election districts, percent voting below State level could not be computed.

[2]All political subdivisions shown for the State of Connecticut are towns, listed in county sequence.

Note: Political subdivisions are defined as counties or independent cities in all States, except Louisiana (parishes), Alaska (election districts), and the six New England States, Michigan, and Wisconsin (cities, villages, towns, and townships).

In some small areas, the percentage voting may exceed 100 percent since voting residence is not necessarily the same as "usual place of residence" used by the Bureau of the Census. Percentage based on unrounded numbers.
