AES Broadcast #2013023

AES Downtime Policy Has Been Deactivated

This message is intended for all AES*Direct* filers.

The AES*Direct* outage has been resolved. You must file all Electronic Export Information (EEI) for shipments that were exported under the AES Downtime Policy, along with any new AES transactions, to receive an ITN. Keep this ITN for future reference.

Shipments previously submitted - If you submitted any shipments to AES*Direct* during the outage, please await a response.

Backlog – Due to the high volume of shipments that are being processed at this time, please be patient in obtaining an AES response message. Do not submit shipments more than once.

Compliance Alerts - If you are filing today for shipments that left on a previous date, you will receive a Compliance Alert. Remember that this occurs when the date of filing is after the date of export. Compliance Alerts are automatically triggered and cannot be changed. If you receive a Compliance Alert for shipments exported under the Downtime Policy, keep a copy of the AES Downtime Broadcast along with the ITN(s) for future reference.
